TO THE CITIZENS OF SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN, — In offering myself as a Candidate for the Mayoral office at the approaching election, I beg to disclaim all personal or party opposition to either of the gentlemen who are now in the field for the same distinction. Having once filled this high office, I should have rested satisfied with the honour conferred on me by my fellow-citizens, had no extraordinary circumstances occurred to point out to me my present course. I was willing to co-operate and labour with you in the public movements of my native city, without any other reward than your approval and public benefit. But it is within the knowledge of most of you that I have been recently singled out to be a mark for the displeasure of our irresponsible Executive; and from this injustice my only appeal is now to a power which is ever jealous of the independence of the Magistracy—a free people. My offence was committed amidst your assembled thousands; the attempt to degrade me has been made in defiance of your approving voices; the vindication of my conduct I leave to your public spirit and intelligence. Your election of me under these circumstances to the office of Chief Magistrate will not only be a vindication of my character—which is a matter of small moment in itself—but you will thereby most effectually resent the insidious but dangerous blow which has been aimed at your own liberties. On the other hand, if this abuse of power is permitted, in my case, I may be the first of a long succession of political victims; but no one of you will be able to say that, sooner or later, he will not be one of the number.

Gentlemen, I solicit your suffrages exclusively on these broad public grounds. As I have made common cause with you through many years past, I ask you to make common cause with me now, in resenting a great injustice, and defending our old British right of public discussion.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your faithful and obedient servant,
JAMES ROBERT WILSHIRE.
December 5th, 1851. 11589

TO THE CITIZENS OF SYDNEY.

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to return my best acknowledgments to those Citizens who did me the honour to record their votes in my favour on the 4th instant.

As I took no step in the Election beyond simply offering myself for the choice of the Citizens, I am, perhaps, the only unsuccessful candidate who has no reason to complain of the result.

The only disappointment I feel in the matter is, that out of 3656 citizens, only 1718 felt sufficient interest to record their votes.

In my address to you at the nomination, I stated my conviction, that in the announcement made by the Colonial Secretary that neither the Sewerage of the City nor the Supply of Water to it would be confided to the City Council, but to a Board of Commissioners, might be traced the first movement for the abolition of the Corporation altogether.

The Sewerage of the City and its sanitary condition, comprise so many objects in common with its municipal government, and are, in fact, so identical with it, that no line can be drawn between them, and to attempt to carry them out by separate and independent authorities, would be altogether impracticable and absurd. To some one body, either corporate or otherwise, must the whole of these important duties be confided.

All who have a regard to municipal institutions, must regret, that the late election furnishes an additional proof, if such were wanting, that in this contemplated suppression of the City Council, the Government are only following the current of public opinion, and that the citizens generally will regard its fall with the same indifference which they have shown to its existence.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your very obedient servant,
E C. WEEKES.

VESSELS REPORTED BY THE PIANET.—The schooner Ariel (tender to the late Mr. Boyd's schooner Wanderer) was at Clarke's Island on the 15th, and Drummond's Island on the 19th August. The whaling barque Star was at Simpson's Island on the 15th July, with 250 barrels sperm oil; same island, on 18th July, Alpha, barque, with 160 barrels sperm oil. Brig Margaret, at Woodall Island, on the 5th August, clean; reported the Lucy Ann, barque, off the Navigators, clean, on the 7th June. Eliza, U.S. whaling ship, 25th August, out 20 months, with 400 barrels, and the Phocian, U.S. whaler, out 22 months, with 1000 barrels oil. Simpson's Island, August 20, Woodhart, barque, Kendall, out 5 months, with 220 barrels sperm oil. The schooner Chieftain was collecting oil on the Kingsmill Group. The barque Juno, Captain Cox, was at Pitt's Island on the 5th, and sailed on the 9th, not being able to procure any oil. On most of the Kingsmill Group the cocoanuts were very scarce, consequently very little oil could be obtained, and the natives are all in a state of starvation—the cocoanut almost the sole food, the source of their chief trade being to [illegible] during her cruise visited the [illegible] Tiana, Tongataboo, Horn Island, [illegible] islands — [illegible]hilles and Sherson Mitchell's Group, A[illegible], Byron, Perout, Islands, Hope, Roach, Cla[illegible]son, Woodall, Drummond, Sydenham, Sim[illegible]son, Woodall, Bell, Merther, Huggin, and Pitt's Islands.

COASTER HOUSE.—Entered Outwards: December 6. Thomas and Henry, brig, 236 tons, Bennett, for Adelaide.

The barque Frances brings news from San Francisco to the 18th October. On the passage she touched at Tutuila (one of the Navigator Islands), and on the 30th November she called at Norfolk Island for supplies, at which place the U.S. whaling ship Monmouth, of Nantucket, out 14 months, was reported with 800 barrels sperm oil. The Titian, schooner, sailed on the 9th October, and the General Cobb on the 20th, for Sydney. The President, ship, and brig Sarah Abigail, were to sail for Sydney on the 1st November. The ship Queen of Sheba, Captain Cadell, and brig Mary and Jane, Captain Charles, were advertised with despatch for Sydney; Henry Harbeck, for Hobart Town, to sail with despatch.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Captain Melville, of the ship Lady Nugent, and a boy named Parsons, were drowned by the upsetting of a boat at Nelson, on the 19th ultimo.

The ketch Æolus, on her passage from the Feejee Islands, sighted Elizabeth Reef on the 4th instant, and Captain Cocks finding a vessel ashore, had a boat lowered, with four hands, and under the charge of Captain Stuart, (late of the Opalia), proceeded towards the reef, when it was found to be the barque Tyrian, of London, (wreck already reported), having on board eight seamen and four passengers, also the captain, Mr. Robinson. In accordance with instructions, Captain Stuart offered every assistance, but only three sailors and the four passengers would go on board the ketch, Capt. Robinson stating that he expected a vessel from Sydney immediately to secure the cargo. From the time the vessel went ashore until the 30th ult., the passengers and crew fared well, and on that day fortunately, the colonial whaling barque Jane, Captain Brazier, made the Island, and took fifteen souls off the wreck, with the understanding they were either to be landed at Howe's Island or Sydney Heads, according to the winds. The Tyrian sunk on the 3rd, the water being up to the bulwarks, leaving only the fore part of her hull out of water. Captain Robinson and five seamen remained by the vessel, with the intention of saving what cargo and gear they could get at.

LOSS OF THE OPALIA.—The Æolus, ketch, arrived last night, having on board Captain Stuart, and part of the crew of the Opalia. It appears that the latter vessel, in making one of the Islands of Goro, in a light wind, missed stays and struck heavily on a reef, on the 24th July. The vessel was immediately plundered by the natives, and four hours after she struck sunk into deep water; the captain and crew were safely landed on shore, but unfortunately without saving any of their clothes, &c.

QUARANTINE. His Excellency the Governor-General has, by a proclamation in Tuesday's Government Gazette, declared and ordered that Nobby Island, within or near the harbour or roadstead of Newcastle, "bounded on the south-east, east and north by the South Pacific Ocean; on the west by the waters of Port Hunter; and on the south-west by the northern termination of the Newcastle Breakwater," shall be a station and place for the performance of quarantine, according to the several provisions of the Act Will. IV., and subject to the several rules, regulations, and restrictions contained therein.

THE AUSTRALIAN STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY'S NEW STEAMERS.—Letters have been received by the Blackwall, from Captain Mackellar, dated 5th August, intimating that the Company's steamer, Waratah, was launched on the day previous, and stating that she is one of the finest looking vessels that has been built on the Clyde. The Yarra Yarra was to be launched on the 22nd August, and promised also to be a fine looking vessel. The engines and boilers were nearly completed, and would be immediately put in their places. These vessels are contracted to be ready for sea on the 20th September, under heavy penalties, and were to leave Scotland for Sydney on or about the 1st October. The river-boat Brisbane will come out in frame in one of the large steamers.

"Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I."

DARLINGHURST COURT HOUSE.

WE have been requested to give insertion to the following correspondence, in explanation of the circumstances under which the £600 recently voted by the Council was solicited.

Supreme Court, Sept. 28, 1851.

My Dear Sir, As I perceive, from the remarks reported in the newspapers to have been made in the Council by some of the speakers, and among these by yourself, that the sum proposed by me (and now voted) to be expended, in certain works at the Criminal Court House, was objected to as really by no means required, and the responsibility of the application rests on my shoulders, I am desirous of the opportunity of acquainting you with the facts which I think ought to be generally known, for the sake of others as well as myself.

So much small wit has been expended—not always, perhaps, in a style quite becoming on the subject of the Chief Justice's "architectural designs," that at length people have (I do not doubt) been led to believe, that the alterations which I have at various times induced the government to make, were to gratify myself rather than accommodate the public; for no fiction can be so gross, that frequent repetition will not, in time cause to be received as truth. Yet I do assure you, that the principal alterations at the King-street Court House were decided on, before I came to the colony; and are now to be seen, (or were a year or two ago) on a plan at the architect's office, bearing Sir Francis Forbes' signature, and that of Sir Richard Bourke. The next most extensive were rendered unavoidable, by the nature of the first; by the want of light; by the want of accommodation for the Insolvency Department; by the enormous increase of chamber business; and the last of them, by the transfer hither of the Registry of Deeds Department. I have certainly tried to get rooms ventilated, sundry chimneys cured of smoking, a sounding board erected, and one or two similar atrocities perpetrated. But with these few exceptions, notwithstanding the wit, and occasionally the ill-nature, with which gentlemen have remarked upon the expenditure,—I assuredly have contrived none of the alterations attributed to me; whatever persons may have been led to imagine, who have never inquired into the matter.

With regard, however, to alterations at the Court House, at Darlinghurst, (unless the fitting up of the second court room, and the closing of certain nuisances within the building, and the making of repairs, be so considered,) I believe that until now there have been none. The second Court was originally holden in the rooms now occupied by the law officers. On the removal of the Museum, it was transferred there. The buildings in the rear, it is true, were erected in consequence of my representations; but certainly on no plan whatever of mine. And if, in pointing out (as I repeatedly have done) the very great inconvenience and defects of the present arrangements, I have shown by plans what was wanted, I have done so only in the desire of affording more exact information. As to such representations being the duty of any one but myself, I should have been glad had this been the general opinion. But, when the Magistrates, upwards of six years ago, sent me a representation respecting the want of a sounding board, and means of excluding drafts of cold air across the bench,—and the Jury, on several occasions represented to me the bad state of their Jury Room, and of the Jury Boxes,—and the Bar applied to the Judges to assign them a retiring room, and the want of a Witnesses' Room, and of a proper Waiting Room for Prisoners, has been pointed out to me almost every Session,—I really did not feel that I could decline paying attention to such things. I say nothing of the defective arrangements as to the Judges' Room. But I will just observe that, to this day, although two Juries sit simultaneously, there is no second Jury Room; and that, when I wrote my last letter to the Government, (of which I enclose you an extract,) there were only five chairs for all the Jurors and the Bar,—of which chairs, one was without a back, one had a broken leg, and a third had no bottom. The state of the place in which prisoners wait their trial, and the passages adjoining it, is absolutely discreditable in point of humanity. And the railing round the premises is such, that, from its position, and the want of lamps, it has twice caused very serious injury to carriages, while it excludes no person; but leaves the whole exposed to the intrusion of the worst characters, at all hours.—Add to this, that there is no watchman, or residence for one; and the Court Keeper (who has to clean all the rooms, after seven Sessions of Gaol Delivery, and eight Sessions of the Magistrates' Court, yearly,) has no other lodging than one room in the roof, at one corner of the Building—where no external noise can be heard, or person prowling round the place can be seen.

Such is the Supreme Court Building, which some gentlemen seem to think so very perfect.—But I—whose lamented predecessor died from catching cold there, (such, Sir James told me, was the original cause of his illness,) and who sit there, as I have done for above ten years, in all weathers, and in all atmospheres, except a pure one, frequently for ten or more hours, and sometimes for fifteen, consecutively, and with a densely crowded mass of human beings around me,—having no small difficulty in hearing the evidence, from the want of any sounding board, or other means of preventing the reverberation of sound anywhere but in the right direction,—the room at night badly lit, the passage from the bench unprotected from wind, and that to the street unshelterd from the rain, as well as ankle deep in mud,—I, experiencing all these things, may be pardoned for thinking differently. And I hope to have the satisfaction of hearing from you, on considering this letter, that you also concur with me.

I am, my dear Sir,
Very truly yours,
ALFRED STEPHEN.

John Lamb, Esq., M.L.C.

Extract of a letter from the Chief Justice to the Colonial Secretary, suggesting an expenditure of (including repairs) £1000; dated 16th April, 1851. (The repairs being estimated at £400.)

From the remarks reported to have been made in the Council last year, it is plain that the nature and object of the works required were thoroughly misunderstood; or, rather, that there was an absolute ignorance prevailing on the subject. His Excellency (pleases, therefore, I should be premised satisfactorily to explain, to any Committee appointed, why I have taken on myself the responsibility of so very urgently asking this large expenditure.

There is at present no second Jury room; and there is neither table, nor chair, nor convenience of any other kind, in the one Jury Room. The sound is wretchedly conveyed in the large room. The fire places should be remodelled: benches are required under the gallery; and there should be means for lighting by night, with lamps. There is no room whatsoever for Witnesses, either for one Court or the other;—nor is there a proper room for the court keeper, or for stolen property, or for the Bar.

The places of convenience in the rear are badly lighted and ventilated, and are situated too near the gaol wall; they are also not properly screened or protected. The Judges' entrance is most inconvenient; the prisoners' entrance is exposed to the rain, and otherwise badly arranged; the leaden pipes are all gone; and the intended railing, to enclose the building, should be finished—but differently arranged, both in front and at the sides; with lamps erected, equally for the use of passers by, as to discourage the resort of improper characters to the enclosure after dark.

Sydney, Nov. 30th, 1851.

My dear Sir,—After a careful perusal and consideration of your letter of the 28th inst., I am satisfied that further accommodation is required, for the various parties whose duties require attendance at the Darlinghurst Court House: and therefore I approve of the appropriation made by the Legislative Council, to accomplish this object.

Respecting the item of £600, which was discussed on Wednesday last, I think that had it been placed on the Estimates for "Repairs and Additions," instead of for "Repairs and Alterations," the comments of which you complain might not have been made. But, considering the vast amount which has been expended in Court Houses and Gaols, in a colony with a population of only 190,000, it is not surprising that members, desirous of seeing a much larger sum appropriated to other services, should object to any increased expenditure on Court Houses, especially for alterations in those recently erected.

To this cause, and not to any ill feeling towards you, (who are properly the agent of communication with the Executive Government, in all such matters,) must be attributed the remarks made by some of the members; or, at all events, those which fell from,

My dear Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
JOHN LAMB.

Sir A. Stephen, Chief Justice, &c., &c., &c.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

FRIDAY.

THE SPEAKER took the chair at twenty-five minutes to four.

GENERAL GRIEVANCES.

Mr. WENTWORTH moved, "1. That the petitions to Her Majesty and both Houses of Parliament, brought up by the Select Committee of this House, appointed on the 31st of October last, to prepare them, be adopted. 2. That an Address be presented to His Excellency the Governor-General, requesting him to transmit the Petition to Her Majesty for presentation to the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the colonies. 3. That the Petition to the House of Commons be forwarded by the Speaker for presentation to Lord Naas, Lord Jocelyn, Mr. Addderley, and Mr. Hume. 4. That the Petition to the House of Lords be forwarded by the Speaker for presentation to Lord Montcagle and the Duke of Argyle. 5. That the Speaker be authorised to send copies of these Petitions to any member of the Houses of Lords or Commons, or any other influential person; and to solicit the influence of gentlemen to whom either the original petitions or copies thereof may be so forwarded, to support the prayer of these Petitions and the measures necessary to give effect to such prayer."

The motion having been seconded was put by the Speaker, when a division was called for by the hon Colonial Secretary, and was taken with the following result:—

POLICE ACT.

Mr. MARTIN moved for leave to bring in a Bill to amend an Act for the regulation of the Police Force in New South Wales. After the vote at which the House had arrived a few evenings since, refusing to insert in the Post-office Bill a clause guaranteeing the salary of the Postmaster-General, and to deprive the House of its power of annually dealing with this salary, there could be no difficulty, he imagined, in granting him leave for the introduction of this Bill. Its object was to repeal the 19th clause of the Police Act, which guaranteed in like manner the salary of the Inspector-General, and Provincial Inspectors of Police, which had in fact been passed by inadvertence.

Mr. LAMB seconded the motion.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY opposed the introduction of the Bill. The House, he contended, would act inconsistently in thus changing the principle of an Act which had only been passed during the last session. Appointments had been made on the faith of the fixed appropriations contained in this Act, and to repeal them now would be to break faith with these office bearers. This case was very different from that of the Postmaster-General, who had not accepted office on the faith of a guarantee of his salary by an Act of Council.

Mr. LAMB hoped that leave would be given. The Act fixed the salaries of the Provincial Inspectors, as well as that of the Inspector-General, and the effect of this perpetuation of offices and salaries by law would be to prevent the House from effecting reductions and changes of system to meet any altered circumstances of the colony. If the house persisted in maintaining this system of fixed appropriations, they would be virtually creating additional schedules.

The SOLICITOR-GENERAL: The House should not do an injustice for the sake merely of getting rid of a bad precedent, if the Act was regarded in that character. The Act, in point of fact, could hardly be regarded as a precedent, inasmuch as it had been overruled in the case of the Postmaster-General, whose salary the House had refused to guarantee in a similar way. It might be that persons had given up other employment, and accepted offices on the faith of having their salaries guaranteed by an Act of Council. It was objectionable in principle also to change the law with such rapidity and with so little real cause.

Mr. HOLDEN hoped that the motion would be withdrawn. Even the elective members who voted with the hon. mover in the Postage Bill could scarcely support him on the present occasion. If the matter was before the House as a new question he would gladly support the view taken by the hon. member for Cook and Westmoreland, but appointments having been actually made under this Act, it would be a breach of faith to alter it in this manner.

Dr. DOUGLASS also suggested the withdrawal of this motion, upon the ground that its passing would involve a breach of faith to the officers who had been appointed under this Act.

Mr. DARVALL took a similar view. There was no want of deliberation when the Council committed this very great blunder; and as the gentlemen holding office under this Act had been no parties to the blunder, their interests ought not to suffer. In claiming attention from the Home Government to their own complaints, they must be careful to preserve faith with those whom they dealt with.

Mr. FLOOD: It was admitted that the former Council had committed a grievous blunder, and no good reason had been advanced for perpetuating this wrong, for it was clear that the Bill before the House would work no actual injustice.

Mr. MARTIN intimated his intention of pressing this motion to a division. The principle involved was so important that nothing could justify the withdrawal of this proposition. There were no such things as permanent enactments known to the constitution, and if the whole Act might be properly and lawfully repealed, they must necessarily have the power of repealing a single clause. If they refused to repeal a schedule created thus in mistake by themselves, they could scarcely with much consistency demand the repeal of the other schedules. There was no breach of faith, for it did not follow that the salaries would be reduced - and, in fact, no such reduction was contemplated. It was absurd to contend that the faith of the House was pledged to the Inspector-General of Police, for it was notorious that the appointment of this gentleman to an office for which he had no claims was one of the most flagrant of those abuses of Home patronage against which the House had that evening remonstrated.

The House divided upon the motion with the following result.

ACTS SHORTENING BILL.

The second reading of the above Bill was was postponed until Tuesday next.

CATTLE SLAUGHTERING BILL.

Mr. MARTIN moved the second reading of the above Bill, stating that it was not his intention to move at once for its consideration in committee, for since obtaining leave to introduce it he had received some important information from the Inspector of Nuisances and others, showing him the expediency of preparing a number of new clauses to render the Bill more perfect and effective in its operation.

The SOLICITOR-GENERAL stated his intention when the Bill came into committee of proposing certain clauses, to change the present system of inspecting cattle at the Boiling-down Establishments in the interior.

The Bill was then read a second time, and was ordered to be considered in committee on Tuesday next.

PENRITH NEPEAN BRIDGE BILL.

The House went into Committee upon the above Bill, and the whole of its clauses having been gone through, it was formally reported to the House. The adoption of the report was directed to stand, as an order of the day, for Tuesday next.

SYDNEY BETHEL UNION BILL.

This Bill, also, was considered in Committee and reported to the House. The report was then adopted, and the Bill was ordered to be read a third time on Tuesday next.

LAW SIMPLIFYING BILL.

Mr. DARVALL withdrew this Bill for the present session. He was most desirous of amending the law, and the improvement which considered the most important, that of enabling parties to a suit, had been adopted by the Imperial Parliament. This, however, was a change so startling in its nature that he should gladly have not only the experience of England, but the opinion of competent persons in the colony, to guide him before pressing the matter upon the consideration of the House.

CATARACT AND NEPEAN BRIDGE BILL.

The above Bill was considered in Committee and reported to the House. The addition of the report was directed to stand as order of the day for Tuesday next.

Council adjourned at five minutes to eight, until three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COUT.

FRIDAY.

BEFORE HIS HONOR THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

EXTENSIVE LARCENY.

Thomas Mart was indicted for stealing 222 books, an ivory crucifix, and vases other articles, the property of Mr. Jeremiah Moore, of George-street, bookseller.

Mr. HOLROYD conducted the defence; attorney, Mr. J. R. Brenan.

Upon the case being called, Mr HOLROYD applied to His Honor for an order the police to give up the sum of £4 10s., watch, and some trinkets, which had been taken from the prisoner, and which he claimed as his own property, and then required to pay the expenses of his defence. The ATTORNEY-GENERAL said, that it was a common practice with parties accused of offences against property, to claim all the money found in their possession as their own, and to ask to be allowed to have it for the purpose of defending themselves. He need scarcely say, that in almost every instance, the money so found was the produce of the very offences with which they were charged; and, therefore, to allow them to use it for the purpose of feeing counsel to defend them, was to assist them to escape at the expense of the very persons whom they had wronged.

His HONOR, whilst he admitted the correctness of this argument, said, that as a general rule, the police had no right to take any property from parties given in their custody, unless they reasonably believed that it was part of the property alleged to have been stolen, or, in the case of money, that it was the proceeds of the sale of such stolen property.

After some further conversation His Honor directed that the £4 10s. should be allowed for the purpose of defending the prisoner.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL stated the case, which, as proved in evidence was this:—The prosecutor is a bookseller, carrying on a somewhat extensive business in George-street. The prisoner has for some the past been employed as a private watchman, in the same street, and has been frequently known for the last eighteen months or two years, by the prosecutor as a seemingly religious person, occasionally buying a work on theology, and having at all times the run of the establishment, and the liberty to peruse the books and come and go without the slightest suspicion. Lately the prosecutor began to miss valuable books from his stock, and he devised various means of detecting the thief; but, although the prisoner was constantly backward and forwards, he had no suspicion that he was the guilty party. At length, he observed that the volumes comprising Lingard's History of England were disappearing one by one, and then feeling assured that some systematic plan of robbery was in operation, he marked the 3th volume with his private mark, and on the evening of Wednesday, the 25th ultimo, he prisoner, who had paid his usual visit, and loitered about the shop, was apprehended as he left it, and the marked volume, and various items of fancy stationery found upon his person. Upon Inspector Singlton proceeding to his residence, he found no less than 222 books in the apartment occupied by him; the whole, or the greater part, of which were identified by Mr. Moore as his property.

Mr. HOLROYD said, that he should leave the case in the hands of the Court.

His HONOR said, that he, also, should leave the case in the hands of the jury; a clearer case could scarcely be made out. The jury immediately returned a verdict of guilty. Upon the prisoner being called up for sentence,

Mr. HOLROYD begged to offer a very few remarks to the Court. He had been instructed that the prisoner had been for some time labouring under a species of monomania, in which a desire to acquire books was the chief feature. He had been in the service of the Crown Prosecutor, whose library seemed to have suffered from his depredations; and it would seem that he appropriated to himself works on theology under some religious delusion.

His HONOR: That is to say, Mr. Holroyd, that he felt that he was ordained to steal religious books?

Upon being called up for judgment, the prisoner made a long address to the Court. He said, that his views were strictly religious; and that in his capacity of private watchman, in George-street, he had often incurred the displeasure of the police, in consequence of the pertinacity with which he had lodged drunkards and women of the town in the watch-house. He was surprised at Mr. Moore's conduct in thus persecuting him, seeing that he had always supported him as the cheapest bookseller in Sydney. Finally he appealed to Heaven as witness of the zeal with which he had always endeavoured to put down vice and immorality, and solemnly declared that every book found in his lodgings he had bought and paid for.

His HONOR said, that he had allowed the prisoner to make his long rambling address, being anxious to ascertain what weight the learned counsel's suggestion ought to have with the Court. That the prisoner stood there not only a convicted thief, but a convicted hypocrite, was prey palpable; and as the law very correctly considered persons labouring under mischievous species of monomania as proper subjects for restraint, His Honor would endeavour to restrain the mischievous mania of this victim by sentencing him to be worked on the public roads or other works of the colony for five years.

(Mr. Moore, the prosecutor, said that he would take the liberty of asking His Honor's advice in respect to a matter connected with this robbery. He had discovered, that in addition to the books recovered, the prisoner had for some time past been in the habit of lending a great number of other works (stolen from his stock) to parties resident in the city. He wished His Honor to advise him as to the best mode of recovering them.

His HONOR: My advice is, that you consult a respectable solicitor.

Mr. HOLROYD: Your Honor, my unfortunate client has been convicted of stealing the prosecutor's books; I think that the prosecutor now stands convicted of endeavouring to steal an opinion.

GAOL DELIVERY.

On the motion of Mr. Holroyd, the recognizances of William Ford, committed for manslaughter by the coroner, were discharged, the Attorney-General declining to prosecute.

The following prisoners were discharged by proclamation, namely, Henry James, Mary Hebren, Catherine Lynch, Thomas Severn, William Schofield, and Hugh Cain.

CONSPIRACY ON THE HIGH SEAS.

William Cronin, and Isaac Quarterman, two seamen belonging to the brig Julia Percy, were indicted for conspiring together to impede the progress of the voyage, and to compel the master to return to Sydney before the voyage had concluded.

Mr. HOLROYD conducted the case on the part of the Crown; attorneys, Messrs Nichols and Williams.

The case, as stated by the learned Counsel, and proved by Mr. J. C. Lewis, master of the brig; Lieutenant Ward, commanding H.M.S. Bramble, and Dr. Forbes, of the latter vessel, was this:—The Julia Percy, which is the property of Captain Towns, sailed hence in July last, on a sandal-wood voyage among the islands of the South Seas; the crew having signed articles for two years. In September, the two prisoners, and another of the crew, Trant, (whose name was included in the present information, but who had absconded at the Isle of Pines), began to manifest a desire to break up the voyage. They first complained of the biscuit, but after some explanation seemed satisfied upon being assured that the old and new bread should be mixed for their use. However, at the latter end of October, they positively refused to proceed with the voyage, and H.M. schooner Bramble arriving off the Isle of Pines, they demanded a survey of the provisions and medicine. Lieutenant Ward and Dr. Forbes made the survey, and decided that the provisions (with some trifling exceptions) were good; and that the stock of medicine was good and sufficient. The three men named in the indictment, nevertheless refused to proceed on the voyage; Trant absconded, and the two prisoners present declared, that the only condition upon which they would work the ship was, that her course should be directed to Sydney. Unwilling to put them in irons, and fearing a prosecution from the Admiralty Court if he put them on shore at the Isle of Pines, Captain Lewis felt compelled to submit to their condition, and at great loss to the owner and himself he broke up the expedition and returned to Sydney.

The prisoners, who were undefended, sought in their cross-examination of the witnesses, to justify their conduct on two different grounds. Cronin on the badness of the provisions, and Quarterman on the non-joining, at the Isle of Pines, of two men whose names were inserted in pencil in the ship's articles, and whose joining the brig at the island was made a

CIRCUIT COURTS.

His Excellency the Governor-General has ordained and appointed that the days on which the Circuit Courts shall hereafter commence to be holden, shall be the days severally hereinafter mentioned, instead of the days heretofore appointed, that is to say:—

At Goulburn, on the second Monday in the months of February and August.

At Bathurst, on Thursday, in the week then next following.

At Maitland, on the Monday week next following that Thursday.

And at Brisbane, on the third Monday in the months of May and November.

ABSTRACT OF SALES BY AUCTION. THIS DAY.

Messrs. Mort and Brown.—At their Rooms, at 11 o'clock, 100 Kegs Nails, Iron Hurdles, Pumps, Chaff-cutting Machine, Patent Coffee Mill, Maize, Hops, Hooded Gig, &c.; at 12 o'clock, Elgin Cottage, House, Balmain, House and Premises, in Clarence-street, Building Land in Clarence-street, Milking Cows; at 3 o'clock, Deals.

Mr. J. G. Cohen.—At his Rooms, at 11 o'clock, Miners' Shovels, Gold Scales, General Merchandise.

Mr. E. Salamon.—At his Rooms, at 11 o'clock, Fancy and other Stationery, Perfumery, Copying Ink, damaged Fancy Goods, &c.

Mr. A. Moore.—At the Labour Bazaar, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture, Chimney Glasses, Pianofortes, Horse, Drays, Harness, Mangles, Tents, &c.

Mr. H. D. Cockburn.—At his Mart, late Appleton's), corner of Pitt and Park streets, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture and Sundries.

Mr. T. Hurley.—At Bank-street, Chippendale, near Mr. Armstrong's Public-house, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture, Cooking Utensils, Crockeryware, Silver Watches, a double-barrelled Gun, and a Building Allotment in George-street, Redfern.

Sale of the "Brennan Nugett."—On Saturday, pursuant to advertisement, the sale of the lump of gold in the matrix, which was found on the Louisa Creek, by the Brennan party, took place at Mr. J. G. Cohen's auction rooms, in the presence of a crowded audience. His Honor the Chief Justice, the Colonial Secretary, several members of the Legislative Council, and many of our leading merchants, were present. The weight of the lump is about 336 ounces; its diameter is about 9 inches; its circumference 21 inches. It was found embedded in clay, about 25 yards from the spot where the natives discovered the hundred weight of gold and quartz, of which Dr. Kerr became the fortunate possessor. There was considerably more quartz about it than the advertised description had led the public to expect; but it is probable that, as a sample of this colony's golden treasures, it is in its actual state more valuable, in a scientific point of view, than if it were solid gold. The first bidding was £700, and after a short competition, it was knocked down to Mr. G. A. Lloyd, and Mr. Holt, jun., for £1155.

Supreme Court.—The fourth term commences this morning. The following is the business paper:—New trial motion, Bowman v. Bank of Australasia; Special case, the Queen v. Walton.

Election for Aldermen.—In the list, furnished to us by the Returning Officer, of the proximate state of the poll on Thursday last, the number of votes polled for Mr. Joseph Simmons, Sen., was incorrectly set down at 343, instead of 433.

House Robbery.—On Friday morning last, a small box was stolen from an upstairs room in the residence of Mrs. Mackay, in Goulburn-street, while the family was at breakfast. The box was subsequently found, broken open, at no great distance from the house, and the contents minus a purse containing about 31s. in money, a bunch of keys, and a gold ring. The value of the loss is estimated at about £5.

Maitland Gold Reward.—The Committee have reported "That no claimant has produced such proof of the compliance of his discovery with the two first conditions as to the direction of the traffic, and as to profitableness, as to justify them in awarding the first reward offered by the subscribers, to any claimant; and in the apprehension of your Committee it now follows, as a necessary consequence, that the first reward not having been claimed within six months from the 1st June, 1851, as prescribed by the sixth condition, the offered reward ceases absolutely on this day, 1st December. Your Committee would observe that each claimant was furnished immediately with a printed copy of the conditions, and that in every case the claimants have been urged, personally or by letter, to lose no time in proving the profitableness of their respective discoveries." The following resolution was passed by the Committee: "That, with reference to the letter from the Colonial Secretary dated 2nd September, 1851, to the Gold Reward Committee, the present secretary, Mr. Tucker, be instructed to renew the request to his Excellency the Governor-General to be pleased to despatch an officer to examine and report on the auriferous localities described by the claimants for the Maitland Gold Reward, calling his Excellency's attention more especially to the localities described by Messrs. W. F. Buchanan and James Lucas."

Suspicion of Stealing.—Between the hours of one and two on Saturday morning Sergeant Watson found a woman named Dade, not unknown to fame, lying in Pitt-street, in a decided state of inebriety, and covered with an oilskin coat. As she could give no account of the manner in which she came into possession of the coat, Watson took her into custody on suspicion of having stolen it. When brought before the magistrate she solemnly protested she knew nothing of the coat—somebody must have thrown it over her while she was drunk. In order to give opportunity for inquiry concerning the coat, the prisoner was remanded until this day.

Coroner's Inquest.—On Saturday evening, an inquest was held at the White Conduit House, Rushcutter's Bay, on view of the body of William King, then lying dead there. From the evidence of several of the neighbours, it appears that the deceased was toll-keeper at the gate on the new South Head Road; that latterly he had been unusually depressed in spirits, and expressed a longing for death. On Saturday morning, he was missed from the gate, and suspicions being excited, search was made, and soon afterwards the body was found in the bay, floating about twenty-five yards from the shore. He was quite dead; there were no marks of violence on the body. The jury found a verdict, that deceased had drowned himself while labouring under temporary insanity. He was reputed to be possessed of considerable means, and was a man of extremely temperate habits.

Roads.—His Excellency the Governor-General, having deemed it expedient to open and make a parish road (to be maintained at the expense of the parishes through which it is to pass) along a portion of the new line of road from Moss Boss to Cutter's Inn, notice is given in Friday's Government Gazette, that in conformity with the provisions of the Act of the Governor and Council, 4th William IV., No. 11, a plan and book of reference, showing the intended line of the road, is deposited in the office of the Surveyor-General in Sydney, and at the police office, Berrima, and all persons interested therein, are to transmit, in writing, to the Clerk of the Executive Council, within one month of this date (December 5) any well grounded objection which may exist to the formation of the road in question.

General Grievances.—Mr. Holroyd parried off on Mr. Wentworth's motion on Friday evening, with Mr. Allen.

Wagga Wagga.—On the 21st instant, the Justices of the Peace for the district of Wagga Wagga intend to remove the public pound of Wagga Wagga from Best's yard to that known as Sepping's yard, on the public reserve, South Wagga Wagga.

Conditional Pardons.—His Excellency the Governor-General has directed it to be notified that Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to authorise the issue of pardons to the undermentioned individuals, on condition that, during the remainder of the term of their respective sentences, they do not return to the places hereunder specified. Dated 15th October, 1851. Pardons available everywhere save in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland:—John Bowen, Asia 9; Fanton Breen, Parmelia 2; Daniel Cole, Eden; William Cole, Nithsdale; Thomas Downay, St. Vincent; James Dwyer, King William; William Finney, John 3; William Juffs, Parmelia 1; Hugh Murphy, Pekoe; Michael Murphy, Captain Cook 3; Timothy Nilligan, Earl Grey 1; Thomas Roberts, Charles Kerr; Patrick Rourke, Hive 2; Joseph Ryan, Hive 2; John Smith, Mangles 6; Joshua Smith, Mangles 7; Thomas Wade, Bengal Merchant 2; Samuel Elvin, Lord Melville 2. Pardons available everywhere save in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the British Possessions in North America:—Henry Queen, Bengal Merchant 3; George Hall Skipton, Norfolk 5. Pardon available everywhere save in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the Island of Corfu:—Daniel Gorman, Lord Melville 2.

Committal.—Charles Alston was on Saturday committed to take his trial for stealing one pair of blankets, exposed for sale outside the shop of Mr. Broad, of George-street South. The property was found in his possession, by Mr. Broad, a short distance from the shop.

Insanity.—A man named Robinson was brought before the Bench on Saturday under the following circumstances. Inspector Higgins deposed, that for some time past he had had his eye upon the defendant, having frequently seen him in the streets conducting himself in such a manner that he thought he was not all right in his head, and he had several times been spoken to by the neighbours, who were afraid that he would lay violent hands upon either himself or some other person; between 9 and 10 on Friday evening he saw Robinson wandering about Castlereagh-street with an open knife in his hand, and afterwards saw him sitting down and sharpening the knife upon the kerb-stone: fearful he would do some mischief with the knife, he confined him. To find sureties to be of good behaviour, in default to be imprisoned for one month: the warrant to be drawn in such a manner as that the attention of the medical officer of the gaol should be drawn to the state of the man's intellect.

Serious Accident.—Yesterday, between the hours of eleven and twelve, a phaeton, containing Mr. A. Hunter and lady, and drawn by three spirited horses, was seen to dash furiously down Collins-street, the driver being evidently unable to guide or pull in the apparently half-broken animals. The phaeton went onwards at a fearful pace, and when it arrived at the corner of Elizabeth-street, came into collision with a carriage, in which were four ladies; both vehicles were overturned in an instant, and their occupants precipitated to the ground with great violence. The carriage contained Mrs. M'Laren, the lady of Mr. M'Laren, formerly Inspector of the Union Bank, her two daughters and governess, all of whom, we regret to state, were severely injured. The suffering ladies were instantly conveyed to the dispensary of Mr. Lewis, where every assistance was afforded them. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter escaped, wonderful to relate, with comparatively slight injury, though one of the wheels of the phaeton was knocked off, the axle broken, and the pole shivered to splinters. On inquiry at a late hour last night, we learned that Mrs. M'Laren and her daughter were in a very dangerous condition. The latter was labouring under concussion of the brain, and Drs. Howitt and O'Mullans were in attendance. There are circumstances connected with this sad accident, to the wanton disregard for human life evinced by which, we scarcely like to trust ourselves to allude in adequate terms. The car containing, we believe, Mr. Hunter and another gentleman, and drawn by the three horses alluded to, went up Collins-street past our offices, the leading horse being then as wild and unmanageable as if he never had seen harness before. With the greatest difficulty he was coaxed up the street, plunging, yawing, jibbing, running back and round upon the wheelers, so as to risk a complete smash every moment. Ten minutes afterwards they came down the street, the horses running away in a mad gallop, going down a crowded street, at racing speed, and with Mrs. Hunter on the box!—Melbourne Argus, November 26.—We regret to state that Mrs. and Miss M'Laren still continue in a very sad condition. They are progressing as favourably as could be anticipated, but can by no means be pronounced out of danger.—Ibid, 27th November.

City and Suburban Properties.—Mort and Brown particularly call the attention of capitalists to their important sales this day, at their auction rooms, George-street, at 12 o'clock, of building land in Clarence-street; commodious house and premises in Clarence-street, near Margaret-place; and that charming little residence known as "Elgin Cottage," situated at Balmain.—Communicated.

DIED,

On Saturday, 6th instant, Mrs. Sarah Blanch, of Kissing Point, relict of the late James Blanch, Esq., of George-street, aged 63 years.

At Parramatta, on Sunday, the 30th November, aged 22 years, Eliza, the beloved wife of Richard T. M'Roberts, deeply regretted by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

FUNERAL.—The friends of the late Mrs. Sarah Blanch, late relict of Mr. Blanch, Ironmonger, George-street, Sydney, are most respectfully requested to attend her funeral, which will take place This Morning, Monday, 8th December.

The procession will move from her late residence, nearly opposite Mr. Robinson's cedar yard, Sussex-street, at 8 o'clock precisely.

JOHN HILL, Jun.,
11674 Undertaker.

BALMAIN.

☞ Lives there a man so lost to nature's charms
That would not shun, when scenes like these invite,
The crowded city—and with joyous steps
Through fair Balmainia trace his devious way
There, rosy health dwells in the mountain breeze,
And plenty in the vale.

MESSRS. MORT AND BROWN have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, THIS DAY, Monday, December 8, at 12 o'clock, without reserve,

That elegant little suburban residence known as "ELGIN COTTAGE," situated at Balmain, within a few yards of the steam ferry and ferry boat landing wharves. It is most substantially built of cut stone with a pretty verandah on each side, and surrounded with a flower and kitchen garden. It contains four apartments and an attic, used as a store room, together with a detached stone-built kitchen; there is a well of water on the premises, which has never been known to fail in the driest season. The ground has a frontage to the main street of 54 feet, and a frontage to the road leading to the ferry of 140 feet, and also a frontage to a reserved lane in the rear. The view from the verandah in front is, without any exaggeration, the most delightful imaginable, having Sydney, Woolloomooloo, Surry Hills, Redfern, &c., &c., breaking out betwixt the two headlands of Balmain and Pyrmont, and the beautiful villas on the Glebe, with the extensive sheet of water of Johnson's Bay and its innumerable inlets spread out in enchanting variety. In short, as to view it is everything the mind can conceive or desire, and in other respects forms a most desirable residence for a respectable family.

Intending purchasers are requested to view the premises, and the Title is unexceptionable.

THIRD DRAFT OF THE BELFORD STUD.

MORT AND BROWN will sell by public auction, on WEDNESDAY, 10th December, at 11 o'clock, at Armstrong's Repository, corner of Castlereagh and Hunter-streets,

About SIXTY HEAD, being a choice portion of the well-known Belford Stud.

Messrs. MORT AND BROWN beg to call the attention of breeders of stock to this sale, and particularly of parties proceeding to the Diggings, as many of the thorough-bred mares possess all the strength and bone of the cart horse, and are capable of drawing a ton with ease alone to Ophir or Sofals. The young stock are perfect, whether as regards beauty, blood, bone, or docility; and are doubtless worth four times the amount they will be sacrificed at. These splendid horses will positively be sold to the highest bidder, without any reservation whatever; and are the very class and caste most suitable for the Indian market.

☞ This stud contains some of the purest and best blood in the whole colony; it is only necessary to name Tom, Cap-à-Pie, Drover, Trumpet, Camel, Glendower, Commissioner, Hadji Baba, and many others, to clearly establish this fact.
Terms liberal, at sale. 11432

THE A1 BARQUE "CAPE HORN."

☞ This beautiful vessel was built at Greenock, of the best live oak, in 1845, and as may be seen by Lloyd's certificate, stands in the first class for some years to come.

MORT AND BROWN have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Produce Stores, Circular Wharf, on THURSDAY, 11th December, at half-past 12 o'clock.

The above named most desirable vessel, being one particularly adapted for the colonial or Eastern trade.

She is coppered and copper-fastened; is 174 TONS PER REGISTER, but will carry 300 tons dead weight and measurement. With her great carrying properties, she combines most excellent sailing qualities.

Upwards of £300 has been expended on her sails, ropes, and general overhaul, and she will require no outlay for some time to come, her sails, stores, and other equipments being very superior. She may be sent to sea at an hour's notice.

She has a patent windlass—her anchors and chains of the best description, and her copper will last for three years.

She is now lying off the Bethel Wharf, Darling Harbour, where she may be inspected. Inventory of her stores may be seen on application to the auctioneers.
Terms at sale.

N.B.—Captain Boggis, who commanded her for some time, has kindly allowed reference to be made to him as to her sailing qualities, &c., &c. He may be seen at Messrs. Watkins and Dean's Office, Church Hill. 11591
